

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE JOURNAL OF A LONDON PLAYGOVER FROM 1811 TO 1855, by MARY L. THOMAS, of English literature, 18 vols., 8vo. $12.00. Books on Law, London, George Hough-ledge & Sons.

This volume is a republication of the dramatic notices contributed by the author during fifteen years to "The London Examiner." They are arranged in order of time, without index, table of contents, or division into chapters. Most of them are lively and interesting, but the book contains a great deal of matter that was not worth preserving, and very little that may be of permanent value. Professor Morley makes no effort toward class analysis or philosophical discussion. He aims at the reform and elevation of the British drama, but we can hardly hope very sanguine results from the slight expenditure of force he has put forth in his "Journal." For a professor of English literature, his style is remarkably careless and inelegant, and it is sometimes obscure to the extent of unintelligibility.
